

Workshop: The moral limits of the market

Department of Political Science, Aarhus University.

Bartholins allé 7 8000, Aarhus C

Building 1331 Room 321

To sign up please email Andreas Albertsen (aba@ps.au.dk)

Schedule:

11.00-12.00: Jørn Sønderholm and Jens Damgaard Thaysen, Center for Applied Philosophy, Department of Culture and Learning, Aalborg University:

Organ markets, options, and an over inclusiveness objection: On Rippon's argument against a live donor organ market.

12.00-13.00: Lunch

13.00-14.00: Ji Yong Lee, Department of Public Health, University of Copenhagen:

Incentivization and Compensation for Surrogacy vs. Uterus Transplantation.

14.00-14.15: Coffee break.

14.15-15.15: Andreas Albertsen, Department of political Science, Aarhus University:

Insufficient offers: A justice-based critique of organ markets.

15.15-16:15: Lauritz Aastrup Munch, School of Culture and Society, Aarhus University:

Against the informational conception of the right to privacy.

The workshop is hosted by the DFF project 'What is mine to give, but not to sell: The moral limits of the market'. For more information, see: <https://ps.au.dk/moral-limits-of-the-market>