

The use of PBL at Master's Programmes

Invitation to seminar

Friday, 22nd of November 2019, 13.00 – 15.30

At Aalborg University PBL is used as the general, pedagogical formula for all the educational programmes, no matter the level or type in question. Although it is common knowledge, that the Master's Programmes hold some important and interesting differences compared to other programmes, when it comes to the students' prerequisites, pre-conditions and even their motivation to participate in the studies.

At this seminar we want to set focus on some of these differences, with a special interest regarding the consequences they should have for the design of the pedagogical strategies used in the study.
