RESEARCH & COMMUNICATION 2022

In 2022, Aalborg University is once again recognized as Europe's best engineering university, as well as for its quality education. AAU is an attractive collaboration partner with more than 60 per cent of its publications produced in collaboration with international partners. Collaboration with trade and industry has high impact – citations of publications written in collaboration with trade and industry are 215 per cent above the world average. Likewise, student projects are written in collaboration with various external partners. Furthermore, AAU publications are to an increasing degree available as Open Access with high download counts for the benefit of research and the outside world.
