Music Therapy in Europe

Paths of Professional development
Ridder, Hanne Mette Ochsner; Tsiris, Giorgos

Published in:
Approaches. Music therapy and special education

Publication date:
2015

Document Version
Early version, also known as pre-print

Link to publication from Aalborg University

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in the public portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

? Users may download and print one copy of any publication from the public portal for the purpose of private study or research.
? You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
? You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal

Take down policy
If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us at vbn@aub.aau.dk providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from vbn.aau.dk on: December 13, 2019
In summer 2015, Approaches – in collaboration with the EMTC – will publish a special issue on Music Therapy in Europe: Paths of Professional Development.

Professional development and recognition is an 'old' issue in music therapy but still a relevant, complex and crucial one. Burning questions regarding professionalisation are at the forefront of most music therapy associations’ agendas across Europe and beyond, and feed back directly to the work of the EMTC.

Considering the wider political, socio-economic, cultural and disciplinary aspects of professionalisation, different development pathways impact directly on music therapy practice, training, ethics, professional collaboration and employment conditions. Although a number of endeavours have been implemented regarding music therapy's professional development and recognition in different countries, documentation and sharing of such endeavours on international level has been limited and scattered.

Drawing from the EMTC’s work since the early ‘90s, as well as from colleagues’ experiences (and struggles) of music therapy’s professional pathways in different European countries, this special issue aims:

- to provide an overview of the current ‘state of affairs’ in Europe by systematically documenting music therapy's paths of professional development across different countries by tracing not only its achievements, but also its failures and problems.

- to offer opportunities to critique and reflect on the interrelationships between music therapy as a discipline (with all its requirements to clinical and/or academic training) and music therapy as a profession (with its regulations, governmental recognition, and registration, legitimisation/authorisation or licensing issues).

Capturing the diversity of music therapy’s professional development across different European countries, this special issue will contribute to the establishment of a shared platform of knowledge upon which further local or international initiatives can be developed.

Individuals who wish to contribute to this special issue by submitting a paper, an interview, or any other relevant material (e.g. photographs or videos) should contact the editors by 6th September 2014:

Hanne Mette Ridder: hanne@hum.aau.dk
Giorgos Tsiris: approaches.editor@gmail.com