Research profile

Line Marie Bruun Jespersen is an Associated Professor at Department of Communication, Aalborg University, and is a member of RELATE (Research Lab for Art and Technology). Lines primary research interest is within art in public spaces, art and publics and the role of art within various types of spatial contexts, that include the interplay between urban architecture, landscape, publics and artistic interventions. A continued focus point of the research on embodied aesthetic experience in the urban landscape and the creation of socially inclusive public spaces through art and artistic interventions, has led to the most recent research on places for play in public space.
